FISH AND MARKET STANDS.

HANLEY'S BOOKS SHOW PURCHASES FROM PHILIPSEN.

And Hanley Is in the Fruit Business-Mr. Nicell Tries to Get Comptroller Myers on the Stand-Clerk McAdam's Con-tempt Case Goes Over Until Wednesday McGrath Gives Interesting Testimony

Proceedings in the new West Washington market investigation, before the Commissioners of Accounts, were opened this morning by recalling to the stand John H. Hanley, of John H. Hanley & Co., fruit dealers.

Mr. Hanley acknowledged that his firm had had numerous dealings with Charles Philipsen, manager of the North River Fish and Game Company.

He denied ever having purchased any smount of fish from Philipsen; but Lawyer Sicoll suggested that there is an entry on Hanley's books accounting for a large purchase of fish from Philipsen made about the time of the allotment of stands in the new market, and he directed the subposning of Hanley's bookkeeper, Hugh Donaldson, and the production of the books of the firm for the inspection of the Commissioners.

"This brought out a protest from the witmess, who asked : "Mr. Nicoll, do you want to ruin my business?"

George H. Schweitzer, bookkeeper for Barholomew Gray, the Centre street liveryman, who has two stands in the new market in his name, was next placed on the stand. His stand is the one which is supposed to have been allotted for the benefit of David Barnett, Deputy Collector of City Revenue in the Finance Department. Although the witness's residence was noted on his permit as 104 East Eleventh street, on his permit as 104 East Eleventh street.

Schweitzer testified that his residence at the time it was granted was at 25 Grove street.

Schweitzer said that he had pa d $137 for fitting up the stands. He afterwards modified this statement by saying that Mr. Gray. his employer, paid the money to Barnett, who was requested to fit up the stands.

No evidence of this transaction appears in Mr. Gray's books, the witness said. It was a cash deal.

Mr. Gray's books, the witness said. It was a cash deal.

This is looked upon as a peculiar proceeding by the Commissioners, who have evidence to the effect that not one hook has driven in the stands allotted to Schweitzer, and no attempt made to fit them up, notwithstanding this payment to an official of the Finance Department for the alleged purpose of making them ready for occupancy.

The hour of 11 having arrived, Lawyer Mitchell suggested that argument on the motion to paulish Chief Clerk McAdam for contempt, which was to have been made in Supreme Court, Chambers, be adjournment, and Lawyer George H. McAdam was commissioned to secure an adjournment until Wednesday morning by consent.

James McGrath was next called and proved to be a very substantial "myth" of about two hundred and fifty pounds weight.

His stand in the new market Mr. Nicoll and the Commissioners have strongly suspected was allotted for the benefit of Deputy Collector McLaughlin, of the Finance Department.

The revelations made by McGrath's testipertment.

The revelations made by McGrath's testimony served to ground them in this susmony served to ground them in this suspictors.

He testified that he did not make application for a stand until after Dec. 1. At this time all of the stands had been allotted and the witness's own permit was issued Nov. 16. long before he made an application.

Here Mr. Nicoll suggested that Comptroller Myers be called. To this Mr. Coudert offered strenuous objection, saying that it is only fair to the Comptroller that he be the last witness to be examined, so that he may be interrogeted as to all matters of detail brought out by other witnesses.

Mr. Nicoll conceded this to be the proper course, and it was suggested that Chief Clerk McAdam be put on the stand to testify to all facts within his know edge except as to those relating to Philipsen and the North River Fish and Game Company.

Lawyer Mitchell, Mr. McAdam's counsel agreed that his client should do this, but azionunced that he was very ill, being confined to his house by a serious illness. He did not know how soon he would be able to testify. Thomas Curry, a Jerseymen, thirty years a dealer in the old market, got half a stand in

He testified to a great deal of hard work in ng even as little space as this and began nk, as he was frequently told by mar-m, that there was a great deal of "funny business going on in the Comptroller's office." He did not finally get his permit until the day before the new market was

He is not a marketman, but is the friend of several. He testified to a conversation with C. H. Jewell, of Rahway, N. J., who was a stand-holder in the old market.

Mr. Jewell had been unable to secure a stand in the new market and told the witness that it was hipted to him that he could not obtain a permit unless he was willing to pay money for it.

money for it.

Mr. Jewell was told this by people to whom he went, because he said they had a "pull" in the Comptroller's office.

The reception of this hearsay evidence called forth an objection from Lawyer Mitchell, who moved to sirike his evidence from the record, which was done.

At 1 P. M. the hearing was adjourned until 18 A. M. to morrow.

WILD ANIMALS IN TOWN.

Thousand Arrive from Bridgeport and Are Housed in the Big Garden.

This morning, at an hour when everything and everybody except the Jersey milkman should be comfortably snuggled up in bed, near upon a thousand wild animals arrived in town. Sixty-four private cars brought them here from Bridgeport.

The start was made at 1 o'clock this morning, and two hours and a halfflater Barnum & Bailey's Greatest was in town.

The transfer from the cars to the streets and the march through the streets to Madison Square Garden was effected with great quickness and great noise.

Cooped up in semi-darkness and in quiet all Winter, the change to the roar and hurlyburly of a railroad journey jarred on the nerves of the beasts, and even though the blinds on the cages shut out, for the most part, the glare and glitter of the torches, they did not prevent the slaves within from uttering protests loud and long against the disturbance from without.

Their royal nibs, the lions, opened wide

Their royal nibs, the lious, opened wide their mouths, and from their throats belched forth resonant roars of anger. The tigers lashed tails on sides and sang soprano to the lions' bass.

Wolves cracked out their snappy barks, byenas whimpered and moaned, the birds whistled, chirped and shricked, while above all rose the occasional trumpet-call from a disgruntled elephant.

The small army of attendants added their shouts to the general hub-bub, and the many flickering torch-lights shed light on the seeming pandemonium.

seeming pandemonium. But out of chaos came order, and this

But out of chaos came order, and this morning beasts, men, birds and paraphernalis are safely housed between the walls of Madison Souare Garden.

At 6 o'clock, as soon as the snimals had been properly disposed about the place, carpenters, mechanics and workmen of all sorts invaded the place and began the work which by Saturday evening next will transform the huge and bare building to the beringed and bedecked theatre peculiar to Barnum. By 10 o'clock this morning the performers and exhibitionists had begun to report for the season's duty. Old acquaintances greeted each other and the new-comers were introduced.

season's duty. Old acquaintances greeted each other and the new-comers were introduced.

Mr. Balley, with note-book and pencil, rushed about the building superintending everything and trying his best to get in two places at the same time. The Arabs, with heads wrapped in white mantles and legs bare, stalked mournfully about, Mohammed El Said salaamed The Evenino World young man, and said 'Tres bien' when asked 'Howdy?' and Rangoon, the Burmese, gesticulated his sorrow at not understanding the scribe's greeting to him.

The first performance given will be on Saturday night next. Three rings and three stages will give room for 125 advertised performances. The hall in the top of the building will be devoted to illusions.

Friday night is booked for the grand parade, and for the first time the procession will move through the east side streets.

Many new features are promised, and the line of march is to be longer than ever before.

Barnum himself didn't meet his property at the station, nor has he yet visited the Garden, He did, however, drop in at the Stock Exchange with his grandson, Frank H. Reunell, and made the announcement that he had a finer collection of buils and bears than that exhibited on the floor of the Exchange.

NEARLY PUT HIS EYE OUT.

Artist Mills Stabs John Ward with His Umbrella.

John Mills, an artist, forty-seven years old, living at 325 West Fifty-ninth street, endeavored to stop some boys from annoying a Chinaman at Fifty-ninth street and Ninth avenue last night.

A fight ensued, during which Mr. Mills thrust his umbrella at his assailants and struck John Ward just above the eye, lacerating the skin and narrowly grazing the ball of the optic. Mills was arrested and taken to the West

Forty-seventh street station-house, where Ward refused to enter any complaint, saying he was at fault, and the sergeant discharged the prisoner.

Ward had his wound attended to at the Roosevelt Hospital and went to his home at the circular thus describes a sample slave shop:

The factory consists of one room—bedroom, kitchen and toby shop, all in one.

On one side of the bed was a filthy woman, nursing a filthy and sickly baby. Some mess, mostly garic, was cooking on the stove and the floor was littered with tobac o refuse, in which several squalid children were playing. At small tables to one side sat hungry-looking, dirty boys and girls, who made the bunches and placed them in the moulds.

These children held their piece of black bread in one hand and worked with the other. The men were equally squalid and filthy.

After the wrapper was put on the toby the end was daubed and smeared with some sort of glucose, moistened with the spittle from the mouths of the rollers.

Catarrh

S a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla — the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparills. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking helf a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Beware

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or " the same as Pearline." It's false-they are not, and besides are dangerous. PEARLINE is never peddled, but sold by all good grocers.
